Six or seven years ago there was not a more promising or active camp in the state than La Plata, a new discovery in the mountains northeast of Ogden, and for awhile it looked as if this section would develop some of the greatest producing mines in this portion of the intermountain region.

As if by magic a thrifty camp sprung up at the mines, a postoffice was estab up at the mines, a postoffice was estab-lished, business houses were erected, and for awhile there was a rush of prospectors, mining men and investors to the camp, which flourished like unto the proverbial green bay tree. The La Plata company, which held some of the best ground in the camp, put in a fine steam hoist, while at the Sunrise the greatest of excitement was caused by the breaking up and shipment to the market of an immense boulder of rich lead ore, the boulder being as big as a freight car and was nothing more than freight car and was nothing more than float, as it reposed on the surface. There was also a very line showing of lead ore and sand carbonate ore in the Rest Jacket, while on Sundown hill fine deposits of copper ore were disclosed, the surface showing all over the camp being all that could be desired, while the district was well watered by in-numerable springs and heavily timbered.

The camp had hardly gotten well out of its swaddling clothes, however, before the Southern Pacific Railroad company stepped in and claimed the ground pany stepped in and claimed the ground on which the mineral discoveries had been made, and this acted at once as a check to the growth of the camp, and for several years immediately follow-ing the district was dead as a "door nail," awaiting the results of the liti-gation, and when the cases were de-cided in favor of the mineral claim-ants, lead and silver had depreciated so in price that as rich as the mines were, on account of their distance from the railroad, they could not be worked the railroad, they could not be worked at a profit, the consequence being that for the last five years this region, pro-lific in its mineralization, has been as quiet as a graveyard.

Last winter, however, the Sunrise company put up a hoist and worked four men in the continued development of the property, a nice body of solid lead ore being disclosed in its workings, and from John R. Porter of Ogden, who has a lease and bond on the Red Jacket, and who was in the city yesterday, it is learned that work is to be resumed in the operation of this property at once. Mr. Porter has great faith in the camp and good news may faith in the camp and good news may be expected from there this season,

PARADOX VALLEY COPPER.

The Diversity of Minerals Found In La Sal Mountains.

C. H. Hart and W. H. Sullivan came in yesterday from Paradox valley with a collection of minerals found in that a collection of minerals found in that district, says the Denver Republican. They were at the Miners' bureau yesterday, and showed samples of copper ore, fossiliferous iron ore, rock sait and Rochelle saits, all of which they claim to have found in the valley.

The existence of copper in that valley has been well known for several months, and Hart and Sullivan both agree that the wealth of the district in copper values has been in no sense in copper values has been in no sem overstated. They also claim that they have discovered an entire mountain of fossiliferous iron ore. The sample shown is identical with the fossiliferous ore of Alabama, to which the city of Birmingham owes its present manufacturing reputation.

The rock salt is said to cover a large area of territory, and can be found in enormous quantities, in masses in the crevices of the rocks and over the surface of the ground. The cattle in the vicinity resort to this section to lick the exposed bodies of sait. The sait is no heavily stained with Iron, and is said to be found in close contact with the The Rochelle salts, while not entirely pure, dissolves readily in water and is pronounced by a physician present yes-terday to be the genuine article. Mr. Hart says that it can be shoveled up by the ton in certain parts of the val-Mr. Hart also had a fine sample of Mf. Hart also had a line sample of malachite broken from a streak of this material which, he says, is large enough to be converted into gems.

The work done so far in the district is merely prospecting. Mr. Hart made openings on the Red Chief vein at several points on the side of the mountain, and he every case found pay one at and in every case found pay ore at shallow depths. At 50 feet above the bed of the creek they came into a strong vein of ore, in which there was a streak of copper glance that will run from 60 to 75 per cent, and copper exberts assert that when the water leve is reached the vein matter will be found

A GOOD CLEAN-UP

What the Times-Review Says of the Dexter Mine.

Dexter company shipped by Wells, Fargo & Co. yesterday morning $11,500 in gold, says the Times-Review of Tuscarora, Nev. The shipment is the result of 15 days' run of the mill and cyanide plant. Of this amount $6,500 is represented in fine gold bars, and $5,000 in cyanide product, and brings the total dry season has made it impossible for the electric plant to develop sufficient power to run the mill to its full capa-city, and the additions to the cyanide plant were not completed until June 25, the run is truly a remarkable one and the run is truly a remarkable one and demonstrates more forcibly than columns of argument that the Dexter is what its owners have always claimed it to be one of the greatest gold properties in the west. The establishment of an auxiliary electric plant, which will furnish some 360 additional horse power, is one of the improvements now in constamplation, and when completed will convince all doubting Thomases that the confidence of the owners in the merits of the mine have been under, rather than over, estimated.

MERCUR IN DEMAND.

well maintained, the investment securities being especially strong in the holdings.

During the call yesterday morning in the pit but slight variation was noticeable in the quotations established. Bullion-Beck showing a slight upward fendency, while Centennial-Eureka, in board lots, was firm and steady at $10 in the asking, with but hominal bids recorded. Geyser-Marion was inactive but at figures near the selling price of the previous day. Grand Central was wanted at $6.95, with dividend on with offerings at $7.25. Mammoth showed improvement, but did not participate in the dealings of the hour, while Mercur was the first and only one of the listed stocks to chronicle a sale, a board lot changing hands at $7.10.

Swansca led the unlisted securities and recorded losses in the bidding as well as in the asking. Chloride Point posted a sale and closed strong at 6 and 7 cer'ds, being somewhat firmer at the close than at the opening. South Swansca also sustained an attack from the bear element, buyer and seller being close together at the end of the call. Dexter was quiet and remained practically stationary, Dalton being gobbied up at ½ of a cent a share, seller 20 days.

The transactions of the day were as follows:

McLean has struck a wonderfully rich body of ore in the Candelaria mine, at Florence. He has 19 feet of solid quartz, assaying $40 per ton, besides, has opened up the vein every 100 feet for the entire length of the claim. The new strike is the main ore chute in the vein and the largest ore body yet found in Florence. There is no question about McLean's skill as a miner and prospector, for he is the original locator of the famous Banner mine, and now owns the Candelaria, Yellow Jacket, Coupon, Gilt-edge and other properties in the heart of the Florence mineral helt, out of which it is hoped he will emerge a many-time millionätre. It is the intention of Mr. Campbell to make a trip to Eagle Valley district within a short time and it is more than likely that his visit there will result in the more active development of valuable gold properties in this camp, in which he is interested with Messrs. Lund and Johnson.

STATE AUDITOR SEEKS ADVICE

REGARDING FUNDS FOR CEDAR BRANCH NORMAL SCHOOL.

Can They Be Drawn On Prior to the Passing of the Title Deeds of the Building and Grounds to State?

State Auditor Richards has been in a quandary to know what to do with respect to drawing warrants on the appropriated fund for the furnishing and maintenance of the Cedar City branch normal school, prior to the fulfillment of all the conditions imposed by the legislature. He believes it to be his duty to withhold the warrants until at least he receives legal advice on the subject, notwithstanding that the Ce-dar City people have threatened to commence mandamus proceedings to compel him to accede to their requests.
The state auditor has laid the matter before the attorney general in the following self-explanatory communication:

Brutal Young Men Beat Two Old People Unmercifully.

and an old man was the unhappy recipient of many wounds inflicted by two incorrigible boys of 18 and 20 years of age.

Mr. Ligurdur Ainson, it seems, permitted James Davis and Foster Bowen to water their horses at his well. At the time of the quarrel there was a third person, another Bowen, with she two boys and it was he who begun the affray by ducking the grandchild of Mr. Ligurdur Ainson and wife in a two of water, greatly to the annoyance of the old people, and against he temonstrances of the child. The grandmother came out of the house to intercede in behalf of the child and had at the hands of the young ruffians almost a pugnacious reception, in which her dress was either kicked or torn from her. At this juncture the old man entered upon the scene and ordered the boys off the premises. The boy that had assaulted the old lady made his escape, while James Davis and Foster Bowen run to the stackyard and procured pitchforks for the purpose of self-defense, as they allege that the old gentleman had a cudgel in his hand. On returning they beat the old man unmercifully, striking him across the forehead, once across the nose, crushing the nasal bones and a third visible stroke across the mouth. Mr. Ainson received other blows and as a result of all wounds is bed-fast. The old man denies having any weapon in his hand. Complaint was made out today charging James Davis and Foster Bowen with assault with intent to do bodily harm.
